At some point, you might notice your garden is supporting a bug or two. You can find a variety of bug sprays at the store, or you can keep your cash and repel the bugs with your own homemade solution.

Ingredients
- 1 garlic bulb
- 1 onion
- 1 tsp cayenne pepper
- 1 quart water
- 1TBS liquid dish soap
- Cheesecloth/ fine strainer

Instructions
1. Chop or blend together the onion and garlic. You can use a food processor, too.
2. Add the cayenne pepper and water.
3. Mix together and let the solution sit or steep for 1 hour.
4. Strain the mixture through fine strainer. Add the liquid dish soap to the strained liquid.
5. Mix or shake well.
6. Spray onto plants every two to three days as long as the problem persists. Don’t forget to spray underneath the leaves of your plants where bugs hide.

Caution: The ingredients in this recipe can irritate eyes and skin and can be toxic to animals. Use gloves and avoid contact with eyes when making and using the spray. Keep out of reach of children. Keep pets out of garden after using.
