Responsibility Chart for the Executive Director and Board

The board team works best when everyone understands who is responsible for what. Some decisions can only be made by the board. Other decisions should be delegated to the executive director. Still, others should be joint decisions made by both the board and executive director.

The problem is, board teams don't always iron out who's responsible for what before they are confronted with a decision.

The items below are decisions your board team might have to make in the future. Here is your chance to assign responsibility before you face the issues. As a board/executive director team, discuss this list and decide how you would assign the responsibility for each decision. Label each item with one of the following:

- E = Executive Director has complete authority to make the decision
- I = Executive Director has authority to act and then inform the board
- P = Executive Director must seek prior approval from the board or relevant board committee to act
- B = Only the board may make the decision
- C = Board committee can make decisions and inform the board
